Workplace Safety Training

We understand the time and the costs involved with keeping your employees trained. Together, we'll develop a customized workplace safety training program that keeps your employees safe and your business running efficiently.

A successful program begins with identifying the unique hazards of your workplace as well as the basic requirements of federal and local regulations. Once we understand exactly what you need, we can outline an appropriate, efficient training schedule. CCI provides a wide range of workplace safety training services designed to meet the demanding requirements of the industrial and construction workplaces. Topics range from basic awareness courses to competent person and OSHA required trainings. CCI experts continually refine our training to ensure that the content is understood by all participants, regardless of educational background or position within your organization.

Onsite Safety Training

Make safety a priority and create an ongoing safety training calendar for your workplace.

CCI can bring our expertise to your site for convenience and less downtime. Our trainers provide multi-faceted, hands-on, interactive training that your employees will easily understand and immediately put to use. We can deliver training monthly, quarterly, annually, or as needed. Depending on the topic and level of detail, courses can be half-day (up to four hours), full-day (four to eight hours), or multiple days.

Our onsite safety training courses are customized to your workplace and cover all OSHA training requirements. We can provide initial or refresher training on any of the below topics. Multiple topics can be combined.

Instructor-Led Online Safety Training

It's not always practical to deliver safety training in person, especially in today's environment. But you still want to ensure quality training that your employees will understand and use.

Need online training? Learn more about our Virtual, Instructor-Led Safety Training (VILT) options.

Virtual Instructor-Led Training, or VILT, is delivered in a virtual environment with the trainer and attendees in separate locations. If your employees can access Zoom or Microsoft Teams, they can participate in a virtual instructor-led training program. This format allows students to interact with the safety professional, asking questions and receiving guidance. VILT provides a better experience than other online safety training options, where the student works through the material on their own.

VILT is also a great way to supplement current in-person training. By using online platforms to deliver training content, it helps fill in the gaps when onsite training is unfeasible.
